Dr. Regina Spruill from Prince George’s County Public Schools named 2022 CTE Teacher Educator of the Year by the Maryland Career and Technical Administrators chapter of the Association for Career and Technical Education (ACTE).

Spruill is a committed educator, advocate, and community organizer. She has spent more than 25 years in education supporting students, families, and communities through education, school partnerships, and community development. Dr. Spruill has served as a teacher, assistant principal, and Director of Education for a community-based organization, and currently serves as Instructional Specialist for Prince George’s County Public Schools’ Career and Technical Education \(CTE\) Department. Her primary goals include improving students’ academic success by strengthening teachers’ instructional practice, providing professional development, and enhancing CTE programs. Working with school administrators, program coordinators, and teachers across the district, Dr. Spruill strives to enhance school based CTE programs by strengthening teacher capacity through professional development, coaching, and evaluation. Over the past ten years, Dr. Spruill’s work in the Career and Technical Education departments has been focused around increasing student and parent awareness of Career and Technical Education programs, expanding enrollment in CTE programs, and increasing students’ success on Technical Skills Assessments enabling them earn industry licenses and certifications.
